

BALTHASAR RESS RIESLING RHEINGAU CLASSIC 2003/2004

There's intensity and presence in this bottling, despite the light body, with peach, flower, citrus and stone aromas and flavors, backed by firm acidity. Drink now through 2010.

Christian Ress, son of Stefan Ress, thus fifth generation has already joined the family business and is determined to continue the family's tradition. Thus, within 5 generations, Balthasar Ress' family business has developed into one of the leading wine growing firms of the region. Many of its wines are being exported into different countries of the world.

Balthasar Ress just won the "BEST OF NATION" Award of the San Francisco International Wine Competition 2003. The vineyard are the natural foundation of the wine-grower's work. Balthasar Ress cultivates a total of hectares (84 acres) of vineyards situated in Hattenheim and several other Rheingau communities. The soil composition varies from site to site.
