

Guillermo enthusiastically describes his "Casa" cuvee as a "shock of color and flavor from pure Malbec". We couldn't agree more. His San Carlos grapes provide the wine with juicy black fruit flavors, while his La Consulta grapes offer structure and minerality.

Vintage: 2008

Varietal: Malbec

Wine Type: Red Wine

Origin: Argentina

Appellation: Luján de Cuyo (Vistalba) and San Carlos (Altamira), Mendoza

Elaboration: A small portion of the wine was aged in used French oak for six months.

Winemakers: Pedro Rosell

Tasting Notes

Standout blackberry notes on the nose, which continue on the palate, with a beautiful rustic character that is more European than Argentine. Excellent structure, with great acidity and some of the most pleasant tannins we've ever tasted. An authentic wine at a terrific price, great with anything from steak to pizza!

"Bright medium ruby. Complex, liqueur-like aromas of dark berries, violet, tobacco and smoke, with a slightly reduced whiff of burnt rubber. Tactile and nicely concentrated, showing an exotic quality to the black fruit flavors. Offbeat but interesting malbec. 87 Points" - Stephen Tanzer's International Wine Cellar, January/February 2010

Technical Data

Production: 1,275 cases

Alcohol: 14%

Total Acid: 4.88 g/l

VA: 0.51 g/l

Res Sugar: 2.75 g/l

pH: 3.9

Prizes and Points

87 Points - Stephen Tanzer's International Wine Cellar

2007 - 90 Points - Wine Enthusiast

2007 - 87 Points - Wine Advocate

2006 - 87 Points - Stephen Tanzer's International Wine Cellar.

2006 - 90 Points - Midwest Wine Connection.