Prosecco

The History

If you go into a bar in Italy and ask for a sparkling wine, chances are you'll be poured a Prosecco and from there you'll discover a totally new sensation. If a wine has the color of topaz, an intoxicating bouquet, a mischievous sapidity and is already unforgettable after the first taste, one is most surely talking about the Prosecco di Valdobbiadene Doc.

The Vineyard

Santa Eurosia Spumanti is a family owned winery located in the epitome of the Prosecco di Valdobbiadene DOC area, in the village of San Pietro di Barbozza. The focus of the winery is on the quality rather than the quantity of the production since the owner knows that each bottle of Prosecco needs the maximum attention and dedication to obtain a perfect result

Tasting Notes

The color is a brilliant straw-green and it is characterized by richer aromas of fresh fruits with pleasant hints of bread crust showing through

Food Pairing

Serve as an aperitif, with fish and vegetables, white meat or, as is the custom in its production zone, enjoyed throughout the entire meal
