New World Port

The History

The Madrona wine all started by a pioneer who found an exceptional landscape that is divestible to the hillside vineyard, which was located in El Dorado, California in 1973. It was originally founded by the Senior Bush who wanted to create this unique wine that has great acidity with perfect balance to create this comfort when drinking the wine. This authentic wine was discovered from a 350 year old Madrona tree, which represented the location to grow the best terroir of the Madrona vineyards. These Madrona trees are found in the greatest growing regions through El Dorado, Sierra Foothills AVAs.

The Grape

25% Alvarahao, 37% Touriga Nacional, 25% Tinta Cao, 6% Sousao, 5% Bastardo, 1% Tinta

Tasting Note

Super complex, wonderfully balanced, and everything we look for in Port-styled wines, the 2012 New-World Port is a wine that can pair with hors d'oeuvres, the main, or dessert (or even later in the evening). Never alcoholic or syrupy-sweet, this is an expression that draws people into loving Port-styled wines. The nose is both a high-toned fruit (raspberry/cranberry) and a wonderfully spicy/herbal character. But it's the palate that really steals the show.
